

10 MINS

Sustainability in Prisons Project

The Sustainability in Prisons Project is a work program in Washington state that offers jobs from endangered frog breeder to the excellently titled "butterfly technician." Kelli Bush is the program's co-director; Nichole Alexander is a former participant.

To hear the interview, select the 3rd story in this episode of On The Record: <https://kuow.org/stories/bifocals-off-sunglasses-on-what-are-you-reading-this-summer>